Wine Sales Representative

452 51st Avenue

Seattle, WA 98125

Animals/Fashion Enthusiast

Connie has spent much of her adult life working at a collage helping people with disabilities get jobs through a co-op program. 9 years ago she gave birth to her daughter and decided that she didn't want to go bak to the collage, so she started a dog walking business. Last year, she switched jobs again and is now a wine representative for a few local wine makers.

Mark, Connie's husband, is a partner for a very successful direct marking company which brings their combined income to over $170K per year.

A glass of Pinot Gris after a day of horseback riding, what could be better?

Starting a wine sales business means that Connie spends a lot of time chatting with restaurant owners and catering services. She genuinely enjoys getting to know people and what makes them tick.

When not actively trying to sell wine to her prospective clients, Connie divides her time between driving her daughter to her various activities and, have cocktails with her friends, many of which she has had since high school.

While she would never consider her self a fashion expert, she likes finding items that make her friends a little jealous.
